INTERNATIONAL REFORMED-ANGLICAN DIALOGUE (IRAD)

Theme: The Nature of Communion

2015-2019

MEETINGS:

1. October 26-31, 2015 - Kochi, India
“The Nature of Communion drawing on the New Testament word koinonia, being invoked today to describe the nature of the interrelationships between churches; discussion on the topic from the perspectives of the Old and New Testaments, and Church history. Seventeenth century English Reformed theology was put in dialogue with contemporary Orthodox theology. The African concept of Ubuntu was placed in dialogue with New Testament understandings of communion” - COMMUNIQUÉ
2. September 2-8, 2016 - Cambridge, England
“The nature of communion and its challenges; perspectives of the Trinity in seventeenth century English Reformed theology in dialogue with contemporary Orthodox theology; a theology of koinonia from the perspective of the sending (missio) of the Son rather than the mutually dependent interpersonal relationships (perichoresis) between the Three Divine Persons; and a reflection on the historical instruments within which koinonia has been maintained” - COMMUNIQUÉ
3. August 1-September 7, 2017 - Durban, South Africa
“The essence of koinōnia, scriptural and historic testimony to its character, how communion is lived and responded to, as well as identifying and critically engaging with diversity in the church and the wider world. A drafting group has been tasked for the next stage of the Commission’s work” - COMMUNIQUÉ
4. August 24-30, 2018 - Vancouver, Canada
“Continuation of work on the theme of the nature of communion and the challenges its loss poses to both Communion. Drafting on the final report” - COMMUNIQUÉ
5. August 23-30, 2019 - Hiroshima, Japan
“Finalizing the report on Communion as God’s gift” - COMMUNIQUÉ

2020 - “Koinonia: God’s Gift and Calling” - FINAL REPORT
